AFTERMATH OF FAILURE

GOT $300,000 FROM NATIONAL BANK

Assistant Treasurer of the Concern is Also Charged With the Crime—
Failure Was One of the Year's Sensations.

Hearst News Service.

Chicago, Feb. 27.—W. Vernon Booth and Frederick R. Robbins will be arrested Monday on an indictment voted against them today, charging felonious conspiracy whereby $300,000 was procured from the Continental National bank of Chicago on false pretenses.

Bail will be fixed at $25,000 each. The maximum penalty for the offense charged is five years in the penitentiary, a $2,000 fine, or both, at the discretion of the court.

Booth is president of A. Booth & Co., a corporation which was proved to be an international fish trust, and which recently failed for a large amount, and is one of the social leaders of Chicago.

Robbins was assistant treasurer of the corporation.

The indictments are the aftermath of the Booth failure which at the time it occurred startled the entire country.

State's Attorney Wayman said tonight that the inquiry against those who contributed to the frauds on Chicago and New York banks on behalf of the defunct corporation to the extent of about $3,100,000 in four years is by no means ended in the one indictment, representing only a single transaction with a single bank.

"This is one of the grossest, most flagrant and most comprehensive collections of crooked finance that I ever heard of. It is a case in which certain men trafficked upon their social standing, and their apparent financial soundness to swindle some of our most careful bankers out of millions on representations which were absolutely false, which were made with no intent except of fraud, and which constitute on a high scale a confidence game in every conception of the law."

"The penitentiary is the place for men who operate huge swindles just as much as for the vagabond who sells gold bricks or the 'sure thing' man who operates a wire tapping swindle. Before the law they are all in the same class, and I propose to make them the same before the bar of justice."

ADMIRAL SPERRY RELIEVED

Will Go to Washington and Act as Advisor to Naval Department.

Hearst News Service.

Washington, Feb. 27.—Admiral Sperry has applied for his relief from the command of the battleship fleet. His request has been granted, and Rear Admiral Richard Wainwright has been designated to assume the command.

Admiral Sperry will retire in September and it was thought that his service would be of greater value if continued in an advisory capacity in Washington than it would be looking after the perfunctory duties on the ships under repair and in preparation for a target practice cruise.

Young Boy Fractured His Leg.

Allan Scruton, aged 17 years, second eldest son of G. H. Scruton, editor of the Democrat-Sentinel, fractured his right leg between the knee and ankle while doing a "stunt" on a springing board at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium about 9 o'clock Friday night.

The lad was taken to his home, Third street and Grand avenue, where Dr. W. J. Ferguson reduced the fracture, but it will be several weeks before he is able to return to his school duties.

ATTEMPTS MURDER, ROBS BANKER

Out on $2500 Bond, Young Degenerate Demonstrates Again That the Only Proper Place For Him
Is a Strong Prison.

Lexington, Ky., Feb. 27.—Beach Hargis, who has been at liberty on a bond of $25,000 awaiting his second trial for the murder of his father, Judge James Hargis, was surrendered by his bondsmen today, after a sensational day and night of revelry.

Although suffering from a wound in the foot he invaded a dance and attempted to murder his cousin, Arch Crawford, who aided in the prosecution for the murder of his father.

He then tackled the inmates of a "blind tiger" near Jackson, and routed the crowd by firing into the room, and early this morning returned to town, and at the point of a pistol secured $25 from the cashier of the Jackson Deposit bank.

As he left the bank he encountered Deputy Sheriff Flint Davis, who had been sent after him by his mother. Davis took him into custody and he was turned over to Jailer Little and taken to the county jail at Irvine to await his second trial which is set for April.

The population took advantage of carnival time to indulge in political manifestations in connection with the anniversary of the assassination of King Carlos and the crown prince.

NO STATEHOOD IN SIGHT

For New Mexico and Arizona at

Associated Press.

Washington, Feb. 27.—There will be no statehood legislation for New Mexico and Arizona at the present session.

Brownsville Affair.

Associated Press.

Washington, Feb. 27.—Under a special rule the house today passed the senate bill granting the discharged negro soldiers of the Twenty-Fifth United States infantry, said to have been involved in the "shooting up" of Brownsville, Texas, the right to prove their innocence, and thus make them eligible for restoration to the army.

THE PROPOSED BRICK PLANT FOR SEDALIA.

Very few people have an idea of the magnitude of a modern, fully equipped brick plant, such as McCusker Bros. propose to erect in Sedalia should their proposition be accepted by the citizens of the city. A brick plant usually brings to their minds the picture of the old time haphazard affair with cheap sheds and mud covered kilns. But the kinds that are needed now are great business establishments, costing large sums of money and capable of creating and expanding an industry of extensive proportions. This is the kind that, if all goes well, will be erected here. The Democrat-Sentinel wishing to fully inform the people as to just what sort of a plant the specifications call for had the above cut made from the official drawings as proposed to the Business Men's association and presents it, so that all may realize just how big a thing it will be. Following are the authentic specifications:

Foundations.

All foundations shall be concrete, one part cement, one part good, clean sand, and four parts good gravel or broken stone, all to be well tamped in place and made level and true. To be not less than two inches wider than brick work they are to carry. Not less than three feet below the surface and deeper where the soil requires.

Engine, Boiler and Machinery Buildings.

Walls to be not less than twelve inches thick, of good well-burnt brick. Mortar to be the best quicklime and sand and to have one part cement added. All to be laid straight and true to line, both outside and in. All buildings to have windows so as to light all rooms in a good and sufficient manner. Roof to be of good three ply composition roofing, well laid and properly coated. Rafters and trusses to be made of not less than two by eight (2x8) yellow pine, properly put in place according to details. All walls not less than twelve feet high and all others carried up to give pitch for roof. Dimensions 30x96 feet.

Dry Kiln.

Outside walls to be not less than twelve inches thick. All partitions four inches thick. Same rules to govern as engine house. Ceiling to be of cinder concrete, interwoven with four inch mesh woven wire fencing, stretched tight and true. Roof to be same as engine house. Dimensions 40x110 feet. Dry kiln to cost $15,000.

Burning Kilns.

Kilns to be Dunn's continuous kiln of latest pattern, sixteen chambers, and built according to his drawing and specifications. Dimensions 100x200 feet. Walls at bottom seven feet thick tapering to top, which will be five feet thick. Burning kilns to cost $15,000.

All to be set on concrete foundation to be made in same proportion as herein specified. All foundations where necessary to have one inch anchor rods, running to the bottom of the concrete. All line shafting to be set on concrete piers. All dryer tracks to be laid of twelve pound steel rails nailed to ties not less than two inches thick of two foot gauge, transfer tracks, four foot gauge. Machinery to cost $12,000.

The balance of the $50,000 to be expended on other buildings, equipment, etc.

The plant to occupy 16 acres of ground.

GOVERNOR ON THE STAND

HE TESTIFIED IN THE COOPER MURDER CASE AT NASH-VILLE, TENN.

TOLD OF MEETING THE AGED DEFENDANT

Found Him in the Waiting Room of the Maxwell Hotel, Penning a Letter to Senator Carmack,
But it Was Not Sent.

Associated Press.

Nashville, Tenn., Feb. 27.—The state is making its last fight in the Cooper trial to get to the jury the fact that Carmack did not anticipate trouble and laughed at the idea, and armed himself to satisfy or humor his alarmed friends. If the court sustains the state and permits the testimony to go in, it will lengthen the trial of the case by at least a week.

The defense finally called Governor Patterson to the stand. The governor told of having hunted up Col. Cooper on the morning of the killing and of finding him in the writing room of the Maxwell hotel writing a letter to Carmack.

The colonel was very angry, and declared Carmack had no right to use his name.

The governor said he advised Cooper not to send the note, as it might provoke personal enmity. The note was turned over, unsigned, to Attorney Bradford, who promised to settle the difficulty.

Robin Cooper and the governor left together, and the governor advised Robin to remain near his father that day.

FACES SERIOUS CHARGE

James H. Dickenson Accused of Robbing the United States Mails.

James H. Dickenson, a 19-year-old boy, employed as assistant postmaster at Cross Timbers, Mo., was arrested Friday by Postoffice Inspector H. P. Mayhew, of this city, on the charge of rifling the United States mails. He was taken to Clinton that night and Saturday morning was arraigned before the United States commissioner who held the prisoner in $1,000 bail. Dickenson furnished bond and was released.

Dickenson has been employed in the Cross Timbers postoffice since November 1, last year. He had full control of the office, being acting postmaster.

Shortly after his adventure into the government service, thefts from the mails were noticed and inspectors were set to work. Three letters containing money orders sent to the Sedalia postoffice had been opened and a total of $40 extracted from them.

When everything was in full bloom Postoffice Inspector Mayhew arrested Dickenson but the latter denied his guilt.

Hearst News Service.

Lexington, Ky., Feb. 27.—While waiting for a train at Bush Creek, a station on the Louisville & Nashville railroad near Mount Vernon, this afternoon, Mrs. Mary Drew, aged 17, was shot down by her husband, John B. Drew, the bullet piercing her left breast near the heart.

Mrs. Drew had been married but a few months, and had planned to go to Michigan to visit her mother, and her husband, a well-to-do farmer, objected, fearing she would never return.

He rushed into the station and fired on the woman just before the train arrived.

The shooting created great excitement, and a posse started on a hunt for Drew, vowing to lynch him if caught.

BLUE JACKETS MARCHED AT NORFOLK, VA.

RECEIVED CHEERS OF THE ENTIRE PEOPLE

Made a Splendid Showing, in Spite of Their Long Stay on Ship Board —Marching Compared Well
With That of Army.

Associated Press.

Norfolk, Va., Feb. 27.—Norfolk paid a home-coming tribute to two thousand officers and blue jackets from the American battleship fleet today.

With flaring trousers ends snugly reefed down in canvas leggings, with jaunty white caps setting off the deep blue of service uniforms, and with rifles slung over their shoulders, the men from the fleet paraded through the principal streets of the city and were received with cheers by practically all of Norfolk's population.

The blue jackets made a splendid showing in spite of their long stay on board the ship. Their marching compared most favorably with that of the army representatives.

THE THEFT OF 46 CENTS

Results in Life Sentence for Three Hold-Up Men.

Associated Press.

Chicago, Feb. 27.—Three hold-up men accused of the theft of forty-six cents, were sentenced to life imprisonment by a jury today.

The sentence was made possible by the passage of a law in 1907 providing the severe penalty inflicted for highway robbery committed with the aid of deadly weapons.

HEINOUS CRIME CHARGED

Bert Bidwell Arrested in Green Ridge For Fearful Offense.

Bert Bidwell, 35 years old, employed as a plasterer at Green Ridge, was arrested by Marshal Calvert and Constable Hampton at 7 o'clock Saturday night, ten minutes after he had committed rape upon Myrtle Eller, a 12-year-old daughter of Will Eller, a well-known resident of that place. Fearing mob violence the officers decided to bring the prisoner to Sedalia, but later altered their plans when the excitement subsided.

Bidwell has been working at Green Ridge, and has a wife and two children living in Illinois. He has an office near the M. K. & T. tracks.

His victim was en route from her home to the butcher shop at the specified hour last night, when she was seized by Bidwell, who lured her into his office, where he accomplished his fiendish purpose.

The girl then made her escape and sounded the alarm, and ten minutes later Bidwell was under arrest. The news of the act spread rapidly and farmers surrounded the prisoner and for a time lynching was feared, but cooler heads prevailed and the excitement was quelled.

School of Theft.

Hearst News Service.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Feb. 27.—Gertrude Kennedy and May Stevenson, two young women from Chicago who were arrested here upon suspicion of having robbed department stores, have confessed to thefts of goods to the amount of $75,000, and tell a startling story of a "school" in Chicago that teaches "the trade."

Following their arrest the women said they had lost count of the value of the goods they had stolen during the last two years, but estimated the approximate value at the sum mentioned.

The police recovered six large trunks filled with expensive gowns, coats and furs at the railway station which were awaiting shipment to Chicago. The value of these goods alone amounted to $3,000.

A MUSICAL FESTIVAL

LADIES' MUSICAL CLUB TO INAUGURATE A YEARLY GATHERING OF MUSIC LOVERS.

THE PLANS ARE NOW BEING PERFECTED

The Very Best Talent, Both in Vocal and Instrumental Work Will Participate—The Event Promises to Be a Grand Success.

The Ladies' Musical club Saturday perfected plans for a grand May Festival musical concert to be given at the Sedalia theater on Friday night, May 7, and the event promises to be a lasting memory to the club members, as well as others who will have the privilege of attending.

The festival will be conducted on the plan of those held annually at Macon City, Moberly, Columbia, Booneville, Fayette and other towns, and will be under the personal direction of Johannes Goetze, of Moberly, a director of the first class, who for years past has been engaged in giving successful musical festivals.

The festival will have as instrumentalists a thirty-five piece orchestra, and the intention of the club is to make the event an annual occurrence. The orchestra is composed of the most talented musicians in the state.

Hugo Olk, the noted cornet master of the St. Louis Symphony orchestra, and P. G. Anton, the famous cellist from the same organization, are among the orchestra members, who will not only take part in the concert work, but will render solos as well.

A feature of the festival will be selections by a quartette composed of Mesdames Sturtevant and Cunningham and Messrs. Grand Hadley, bartone, and Edward Walker, dramatic tenor, who will also render separate solos.

The committee in charge of the event is composed of Mesdames W. D. Steele, C. H. Bard, E. F. Yancey, Richard Waddell, Oscar Ott, Eugene Thomson, Harry Carpenter, E. B. Quisenberry and J. H. Rodas and Misses Jessie Blair, Jessie Smith and Hattie Gold.

A musical festival is a new thing in Sedalia, but the Ladies' Musical club members have developed a vim and determination to make it an annual affair, and judging from the success attained from past entertainments under the able direction of the club members, the coming event will no doubt attain the success that it so justly merits.

Mr. Goetze, who will be in charge of the festival, is a noted musician, who has an international reputation, and music lovers of this city and surrounding country will be given a treat soon that is envied by many cities much larger by far than the Queen City.

DON'T DIET FOR FAT

You have no appetite for gruel, have you? By the same token, if you scale in excess of 150 pounds, I know you have no great liking for gymnasium stunts. As a rule fat folks are neither athletic nor ascetic, except under compulsion to be either, no matter how necessary it is for them to reduce. There is a third, better, and surer way of getting rid of superfluous flesh.

The trouble of both dieting and exercise is, first the trouble, second, the danger (fatty heart); third, wrinkles; and fourth, stomach disgust. You are liable to all four if you exercise or diet. On the other hand, you can sidestep all four, and still reduce as much or little as you please, even up to losing a pound a day, if you see fit, by taking a teaspoonful after meals and at bedtime of the following simple home receipt: One-half ounce Marmola, ½ ounce Fluid Extract Cascara Aromatic, and 3¼ ounces Peppermint Water.

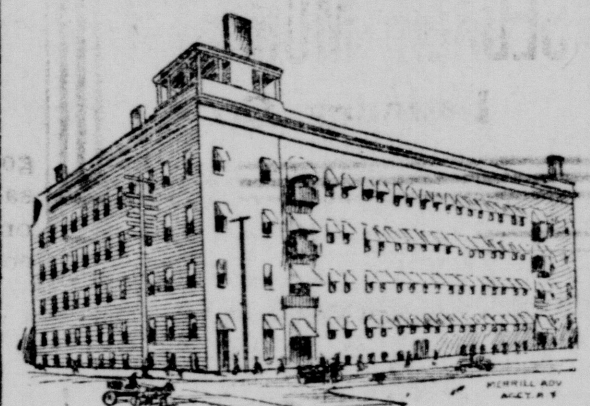

Any druggist will fill this prescription for you cheaply, and you may take it with perfect confidence that it will do no manner of harm. Instead it almost invariably improves the health and, likewise, the complexion.

MRS. COMER'S BEST JUDGMENT.

Like That of Others, It Occasionally Was at Fault.

The mistakes which were plentifully sprinkled along Mrs. Comer's career were never regretted by any one more than by Mrs. Comer herself. "I used the very best judgment I had," she said, referring to one unfortunate occurrence, "but as usual, everything went wrong."

"You see, I went to Greenville in the morning with Mrs. Hobart, intending to go on to Nashua; but I changed my mind when the weather turned cool and spent the day with Anna Woods, going home at dusk. I'd forgotten my little bag with my key in it, so I went right over to Mrs. Hobart's."

"She'd gone down the road to Mrs. Cole's, but I found her key behind the left-hand blind, and went right in."

"The house was dark, but I said to myself: 'I won't light a lamp for fear of scaring her, a timid woman living all alone as she does.' So I sat in the dark till I heard her coming up the walk."

"When she found the door was unlocked she gave a kind of a gasp; so I stepped forward, and then, long as I had a cold so my voice didn't sound natural, and I was afraid 'twould scare her, she being so timid, I put out my hand and laid it on her arm."

"And if you'll believe me," finished Mrs. Comer, placidly, "she fell right over in a faint, and cut her forehead on the edge of the rocking chair, and I thought I'd never bring her to!"

"There's no use trying to be careful with a woman like her."—Youth's Companion.

TRAINING THE EEBLE STEPS.

Cent School Was a Worthy Ancestor of the Kindergarten.

A cent school is so called because the children who come to it bring each one cent, clutched tightly in a little hand, or knotted in the corner of a handkerchief, a daily offering. If the cent is forgotten, or lost on the way, the child goes home for another, that is all, and has scolding for carelessness into the bargain. The little children go to it—used to go, rather, for indeed this should all be in the past tense rather than the present, the cent school being a thing of the past and, as one might say, a great aunt of the present kindergarten, an old woman from the country, who is rather plain in her ways. Eunice Swain would have thought a kindergarten foolishness. Her children did not come to school to be amused, but to work. She put them on benches in her big kitchen, because it was warm there, and sat in the dining room door and taught them, or chastised them, as the spirit bade her. She taught the three Rs, and manners, and truth telling, and, above all, humility, impressing on these infants daily that they belonged to a generation, not of vipers exactly, but of weaklings.—L. H. The Old English "Tumbler."
The old-fashioned English tumbler, which insisted on reverting to an erect position, no matter how frequently it was knocked over, possessed merits. This was the original form of drinking tumbler—hence the name. They were made of thin horn and weighted with a bulbous mass at the bottom. The idea of their use was a double one. The old drinking custom required that the ale should be drunk at a draft—for its presence in the tumbler would cause it to overbalance and spill its contents—and there was the advantage possessed by the tumbler of not rolling out of reach when knocked about during orgies.

This is only one of many such reports as the little "want" "For Sale," "For Rent" ads in the Democrat-Sentinel bring to this office.

Only a short time ago a gentleman advertised for a "Lost Watch." It usually requires about two insertions to restore a lost article to the owner, but in this particular instance it required six insertions before the watch was recovered. The delay was occasioned by reason of the watch "changing hands," having been bartered three times during the time the advertisement ran and the third time it was traded a witness to the transaction recognized the watch as the one advertised and immediately notified the owner who took steps to recover it.

Renounce the tyranny of the wash tub. Woman's real rights consist in enjoying life and not in wasting it.

Let Our Laundry Do Your Work.

In every household there is a great deal of useless labor expended, especially in the line of washing and general laundry work. There is no use in standing for hours over a hot, steaming tub, no use wasting your time and energy worrying over the careless washing of those summer waists and dresses; absolutely no reason for uselessly wasting your strength in beating and scrubbing carpets—when the Dorn-Cloney Laundry will do the same work as well and for only a trifling cost.

Spring Fashions

THOSE who love the new and beautiful in dress will find much of interest in our new season's displays. And while the exhibits are at their best, a visit to the store will be doubly interesting, affording, as it will, a chance to practice real economy, and at the same time "study the styles," analyze them, "see the demonstration," to have clearly explained and as clearly to understand the principles of fashion just as an interesting scientific principle is demonstrated in the high school experiment room.

The basic idea of the new season's styles has been found in the Fashions of the Directorate, the "Directoire Styles" and closely related "Empire Styles," which were so strongly and so successfully introduced last season. To these have been added a new fashion note, a new element as it were, found in the style of dress worn in the middle ages. In the blending of these three, the Directoire, the Empire and the Mediaeval styles we shall find our fashion foundation for the coming season.

MADE GREAT APPEAL TO HIM.

Silence of Ants Especially Impressed Bibulous Individual.

"I hope and trust, muh po', underdone brudder," severely said good old Parson Bagster, addressing a bibulous member of his flock, "dat de 'stressin' eppersode of night befo' last will be a lesson to yo'!"

"Yassah!" replied the erring one, wagging his head, convincedly. "I sho'ly regains 'twill I been uh-packin' home too many drams, now and ag'in, yuh of late, as muh wife—fine lady as dar is in the world!—has been p'intedly tellin' me. But, on de monumental 'casion yo' defers to I gits lit up and draped down by de wayside and slept all night on an ant hill, and de paltry varmint's mighty nigh eat me up. Blame' near skinned me alive, sah, dem ants did; but dey didn't talk uh-whilest dey was doin' it. Nussah, dey never said a word 'bout de awful contamination o' muh heenyus conduct, and all dis and dat and de tudder—dess ett me up in peace and quiet. And attar dis, if I keeps muh mind, whenever I gits too much o' dat 'ar balloon juice in muh pussnality, I's gwine to lay out on an ant hill all night, preference to goin' home to muh family. By de blessin' o' de Lawd, ants don't talk!"—Tom P. Morgan, in Puck.

An Interesting Runaway.

"I read a piece in your paper about an automobile that ran away with a man's mother-in-law," a correspondent writes the Adams (Ga.) Enterprise, "and I'm interested in that automobile, and would like to know the name and price of it, or if the owner would part with it for an extra consideration? The only objection to the story is that it doesn't go far enough; it says 'the automobile ran away with her,' but doesn't say what happened—whether the runaway was fatal, or the automobile changed its mind and turned 'round and came back to where it started from. Can you throw any more light on the subject, and, by so doing, oblige a constant reader and old subscriber?"

Pretty Women.

"Every time I wait on an unusually good-looking, well-dressed woman," said the girl behind the counter, "some one steps up the minute she leaves the counter and asks who she is. I suppose in most cases the curiosity is entirely harmless. Maybe the inquirers simply have a passion for spotting rich or famous people. Judging by the appearance of my customer they suppose her to be rich or famous or both, and they appeal to me for information. Naturally I can't give them any. Very often I really do not know who my stylish customers are, and even if I do know it isn't my place to set curious busybodies on their track."

AS TO ORIGIN OF THE SPOON.

Shells Probably First Used for Purpose in Prehistoric Times.

The suggestion is offered by a correspondent that the domestic spoon probably owes its origin to the shell. Shells of the mussel, scallop, and oyster, it is believed, were used in prehistoric times as spoons and ladles, the handle being formed of a piece of wood split at one end to hold the shell firmly. Some savage nations make similar spoons up to the present day, and the old Highland custom of offering whisky in a shell has been probably handed down from generation to generation for untold ages. Westman in his "History of the Spoon," gives Roman specimens, which are very simple in design—something like silver caddy spoons—and are much shorter in the handle than those from Egypt. Those for common use were generally made of bronze, iron or brass. They clearly show how the shell shape was retained, and their marine origin is also preserved in the name of a spoon—cochleare—derived from cochlea, a shell or cockle. The Celtic spoon also closely resembled the shell in form, though made of bronze. The horns of various animals, such as the ox, bison and ram, were often used as drinking cups, and as the material was found suitable, it was sometimes used with wood, ivory, metal, etc., for spoon making. Hence the ancient expression: "To spoil a horn to make a spoon."

Your Throat

Is one of the most delicate parts of the body and should be carefully guarded and cared for especially at this time of the year. You ought to stop a sore throat just as soon as you get it. The best way to do it is with WILCOX'S GARGLE. It immediately reduces swelling, inflammation, cleans, softens and soothes the tender tissues and in ordinary cases gives relief at once. PASSING OF THE VETERINARY.

Few Young Men Are Joining the Ranks of This Profession.

In times of epidemic among cattle the veterinary surgeon is invaluable. His general field of work, however, is limited to-day, because of the prevalence of automobiles, and few young men seeking a profession join the veterinary ranks.

While there is much work for a veterinary to do among invalid dogs, cats, cows and other domestic pets, the subject of his most careful study and most remunerative work is the horse.

Horses, so valuable and necessary, are watched devotedly for the slightest sign of indisposition. The wife may cough unpleasantly for a week before the doctor is sent for, but the veterinary will hurriedly answer the frantic summons of her husband if his horse shows the slightest symptoms of a cold. And the gradual disappearance of the horse robs the veterinary of his chief source of income. Many of the profession who foresee the continual decrease of their horse patients are applying to the government for places as surgeons in the cavalry—perhaps the least likely seat of automobile invasion.

Gave It Her Hearty Approval. "They are going to start up a press club here," said a newspaper man to his young lady friend. "We held a meeting at the Seelbach hotel and elected officers, and now I think it's going through."

"That will just be fine. Tailors charge such extravagant prices now-a-days, and I think it is a great thing for young men to be able to keep their clothes pressed at a reasonable price, and it will especially be a boon to traveling men stopping at the hotel," she innocently averred.

"Where ignorance is bliss 'tis folly," etc.," said the young man to himself, as he allowed the conversation to drift to wearing apparel.—Louisville Times.

THE REMARKABLE PAINTING
"NANA" NOW ON EXHIBITION IN THIS CITY

There is now on exhibition at 111 West Third street, Alamo building, one of the world's most famous works of art, a painting by Suchorowsky, entitled "Nana," which is valued at $85,000 and took three years to paint. It was finished twenty-seven years ago, and has been on exhibition all over Europe and America, and everywhere it has been seen it has won general commendation for its merit. The picture is that of a woman's figure, nude, which rests upon a tiger skin thrown upon a crimson velvet couch. She is supposed to be contemplating her own beauty in a mirror opposite at the time of awakening. One arm is thrown over her head, with the hand underneath; the other hangs loosely down over the couch, while a wreath of golden hair streams almost to the floor. This attitude is most graceful; the wide open look almost into the spectator's, while a pleased smile parts the lips. The chief attraction of the picture is the startling, life-like look of the whole, the accurate modeling, the drawing of the lines and curves, and the fine coloring, especially the flesh tints. The lights and shades are wonderfully vivid, making the figure stand out from the canvas in a striking way. It being almost impossible to believe that the face and head, with their beautiful curves, could be merely an illusion on a flat surface. The delicately soft flesh tints are heightened to their effect by a drapery thrown about the tiger skin of pink and lace. Near by is a table covered with heavy drapery, whose folds are realistic to the point of almost making the eye disbelieve its own evidence. A bracelet on the floor could apparently be picked up. At the other end of the room is a mirror in which, though the room is dark, the painting is faithfully reproduced, and the reflection is so life-like as to cause even more surprise than the first view of the picture itself.

"Nana" can be seen between any hours of the day between 10 a. m. and 10 p. m.

George Kayes, clerk at the Fairmont, who is English, but is ambitious to outgrow it, was discussing the endurance contest in Judge Lawlor's court, says the San Francisco Chronicle.

"Of course, I know you got your jury system from England," he said, "and so I suppose I ought not to criticize it. But this is a country of progress, and you ought to try to make some improvement."

"Suggest one," interposed Attorney General Lauck, who was passing.

"Well, you might allow more leeway in the matter of having opinions. Now, if I were a tradesman I should not consider it a bar to jury service if I had an opinion. I could lay it aside while the trial was on."

"And what would you do with the opinion where it was laid aside?"

German Student Insurance.

The University of Breslau has made a contract with an accident insurance company in Frankfurt to insure its students on the following plan: All students of mathematics, astronomy, physics, chemistry or pharmacy, botany, zoology, mineralogy and geology must pay a fee of 36 cents each semester and be insured against accident occurring in the line of duty. Firemen and machinists and employees of the clinics are also included, the first two paying $1.19 and the last 71 cents premium. The policy lapses as soon as the holder's connection with the university is severed. The company pays $714 in case of death, $3,570, payable in annuities, for total disability, corresponding smaller amounts for partial disability, and 71 cents a day (not exceeding one year) if cured. This insurance is optional with students of the other branches.

"I sat next to three people at the opera the other night," said the woman, "who interested me very much. They were husband, wife and son. I couldn't help wondering as I watched him why he didn't take a room at a hotel to sleep. He could have got a nice room and bath at the Waldorf or anywhere for the price he was paying for that chair that was so uncomfortable to sit up and sleep in."

SEDALIA THEATRE.

Sedalia Theater Tonight.

Mr. H. H. Frazee has the credit for having produced a number of good things, and another of them is "A Knight for a Day." He has mounted this production beautifully and supplied it with an excellent cast and one of the handsomest choruses ever seen on any stage—girls who sing with vivacity dance with no end of spirit and who form a beautiful framework for the capable comedians.

Even among a host of fun makers Eugene Moulan is easily a leader. All the critics declare him to be clever and original. His sense of humor is keen, and he makes every line in his songs tell.

WOOD'S OPERA HOUSE.

The patrons of Wood's opera house will have an opportunity to see some really good plays at prices within the reach of all. Isabel C. Jackson, supported by an excellent company of players, will open an engagement at Wood's opera house Sunday, March 7, and it will be the aim of the management to offer a line of attractions that will be uplifting, entertaining, instructive, and, above all, moral, clean and free from objectionable features.

The management of Wood's opera house has found by experience in Wichita, Joplin and some of the other cities of the new Southwest circuit that high class productions at low prices is a success financially. The list of plays includes such well known high class dramas and comedies as:

The Charity Ball.
The Girl of the Golden West.
The Senator's Wife.
The Opera Singer.
Camille.
Magada.
Mrs. Temple's Telegram.
The Henrietta.
Zira.
Woman Against Woman.

And other well known and tried successes.

The company, headed by Isabel C. Jackson, an actress of noted ability, youth and beauty, will be under the management and direction of Percy H. Levin, one of the best known and ablest stock stage directors of the day. The management wants everyone to come and witness the opening play and if they like the production speak a good word to their neighbors for the company, and if they don't like it, tell the management.

Golden Opportunity That Cassandra Overlooked.

Xanthippe, Cassandra, Queen Elizabeth and Dido were walking along the Styx one afternoon not long ago and the conversation between these eminent ladies turned upon prophecy. With the exception of Cassandra none of them seemed to take much stock in it.

"Tell me the honest truth now, Cassandra—could you really see into the future?" asked Dido with a skeptical smile at the prophetess.

"I could, honestly," said Cassandra earnestly.

"How far, Cassie?" queried Queen Elizabeth.

"All the far there was," said Cassandra.

"Humph," said Xanthippe. "Could you see as far ahead as—Rudyard Kipling?"

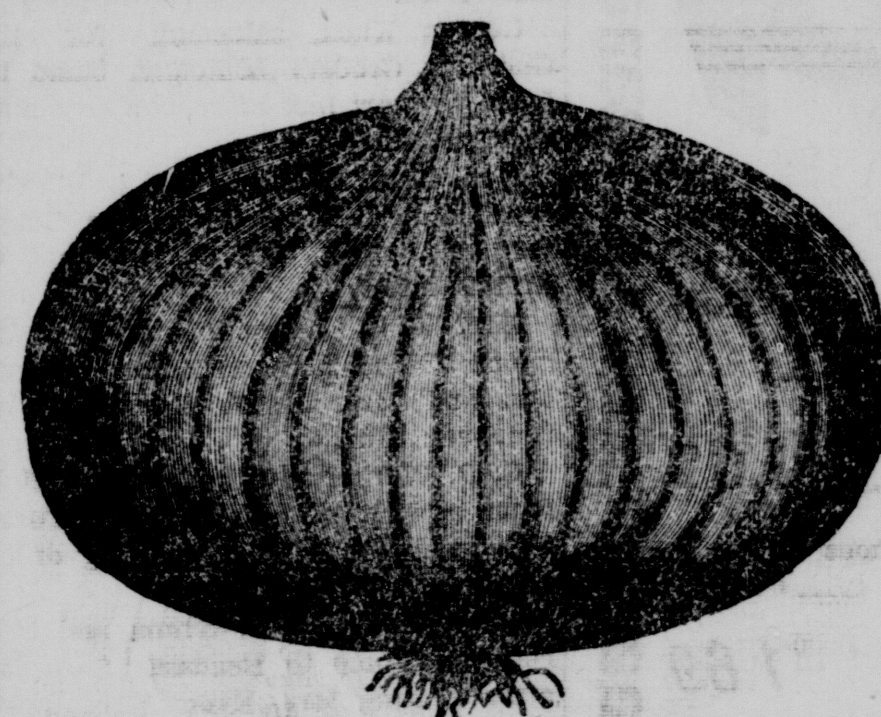

"Yep," said Cassandra. "I'd read all Kipling ten years before the fall of Troy."

"Then all I've got to say," said Xanthippe tartly, "is you were an awful fool not to copy the stuff down and publish it as your own."

Jackson, Ky., Feb. 27.—Walter R. Day, ex-state treasurer of Kentucky, was sentenced today to imprisonment in the penitentiary for a period of one year on the charge of obtaining money under false pretenses. "'Madam,' he said, 'my feet are nearly froze.' He pointed to his shoes, a tangle of string and strips of leather and holes through which his bare feet showed. 'Have you got an old pair of boots you could give me, madam?'"

"The woman, after rummaging in her closet, returned to the tramp and said feelingly:

"'Poor fellow, I know you must suffer terribly without shoes this bitter weather. I have none to fit you, but here is a pair of my late husband's skates you can have.'"

Louisville, Ky., Feb. 28.—What would be the cost to Kentucky and the nation if the state in which corn-juice and cologne are the principal products should go dry?

In answer to this question, which was emphasized by the recent attempt of the Anti-Saloon league, of Kentucky, to put pressure enough on Governor Willson to compel him to call an extra session of the legislature, the National Model License league has collated a lot of data and is sending broadcast a statement showing the amount of money invested in the distillery, brewery, wholesale, retail and collateral industries in Kentucky, and suggesting that unless the people of Kentucky are willing to put a penalty on the use and possession of liquor, they should refuse to destroy property that has been established under the sanction of state and national laws, and which now pays nearly one-half of the state revenue and gives to the government funds sufficient to build five battleships every year.

In its statement the National Model License league asserts that it will not oppose a law penalizing the use of alcoholic beverages in any prohibition territory, but it insists that if the people demand the right to use alcoholic beverages, they should give Kentucky industries a square deal, instead of confiscating the property of their neighbors without lessening the amount of liquor consumed.

The league points out that in despite of the progress of the prohibition movement in recent years, the falling off in the liquor business, especially in Kentucky, was proportionately less than that suffered by any other line of business during the recent financial depression.

LOSS TO THE NATION.

The league says that state-wide prohibition in Kentucky, prohibiting the sale and manufacture of alcoholic beverages, would be felt keenly throughout the nation. According to the report of the commissioner of internal revenue for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1908 (which year, by the way, was not so great a year for the amount of revenue as several preceding years, due to financial disturbance of the previous fall), Kentucky paid into the national treasury for taxes on distilled and fermented liquors a total of $24,086,663.11. The five collection districts of the state were led by the Fifth, the Louisville district, with $12,444,690.94 on whisky, and $385,706.48 on beer. The other districts have offices at Lexington, Covington, Owensboro and Danville.

The amount of money paid by Kentucky in internal revenue collections for one year would pay the salary of the president of the United States, raised to $100,000 a year, for 240 years. If diverted to that fund, it would pay the greater part of the cost of building the Panama canal.

LOSS TO TAXATION IN STATE.

Kentucky distilleries, breweries and retailers pay a considerable sum annually both in ad valorem taxes for property and in license fees to the cities and the state. There are 1,727 saloons in the state. These pay annually to the state $201 each, or $347,127. In the city of Louisville the sum of $400,000 a year is received from retailers and wholesalers' license fees. In second, third, fourth, fifth and sixth class cities, a total of $209,800 more is paid to the cities.

This makes a total for licenses of $956,927. Other items which must be added (from the state auditor's report) follow:

Tax on distilled spirits, $104,061.54; tax on rectifiers, $69,817.75; tax on wholesale liquor dealers, $20,800; domestic brewers, $1,600; foreign brewers, $1,800; domestic brewers' agencies, $650; foreign liquor agencies $925; distillers of fruits, $300.

The tax on saloon property is estimated at $55,000, and the state and city taxes on distillery and brewery property total $860,000. This gives a total revenue of $2,071,881.29 for state and city taxes and licenses. The blotting out of the liquor business in Kentucky, if such were accomplished, would mean a corresponding increase in taxation, according to the league's figures.

MANY DRY COUNTIES KEPT UP.

Seventy-four of the dry counties in Kentucky receive a total of $804,966.95 more from the state treasury every year than they turn in as taxes, according to the report of the state auditor. This is an average of $10,320.09 deficit for each dry county in the group.

Treasurer Farley announces that the state treasury is so depleted that it has been decided to suspend payments of warrants until the September settlement by the sheriffs of the various counties. In view of the fact that about one-third of the revenue of the state and the cities is derived from direct or indirect taxation of the liquor business, destruction of that business, the league says, would result in doubling of taxes on all farm and other properties, without any compensating gain, as the amount of liquors consumed would not be lessened in any degree, the state merely suffering a loss of revenue and a paralysis of business.

Furthermore, it is pointed out that a very large amount of money would be sent out of the state for the purchase of liquors, which money now is spent in the state and gives employment to so many citizens of Kentucky.

VALUE OF DISTILLERY PROPERTY.

Kentucky distillery property is estimated by the league at $60,000,000. This included the distilleries proper, the warehouses, and the wholesale and distributing houses. There are 273 registered distilleries in Kentucky, according to the internal revenue report, which number is more than twice as many as in any other state, the next state being Pennsylvania, which has 119 distilleries.

The operating capital invested in distilleries and wholesale houses in the state is twice the amount of the money invested in property, or $120,000,000. This aggregates $180,000,000 of the state's wealth which would be destroyed or driven from the state should prohibition laws, such as have been adopted in Tennessee, be passed in Kentucky.

All the independent industries in Kentucky would feel that loss. The banks would be hard hit. It is estimated that between $10,000,000 and $15,000,000 is loaned annually by banks with warehouse receipts as collateral, at 6 per cent interest, which would be an item of $600,000 to $900,000 yearly to the state's banks alone. Warehouse receipts are a convenient form of collateral for effecting loans, and practically every large distiller must be a banker as well, as he carries accounts and pays out money, with his crop as the security.

If the average whisky crop of Kentucky be 27,000,000 gallons and a bushel of grain can be converted into 4½ gallons of whisky, the distilleries must purchase 6,000,000 bushels of grain yearly.

VALUE OF BREWERY PROPERTY.

While in comparison with the distilling interests of Kentucky, its brewing interests are small, still, taken by themselves, they are no mean item in the state's commerce.

The amount of money invested in breweries in the state is $7,000,000, and an additional $5,000,000 is required as operating capital.

There are 22 breweries in the state, distributed as follows: Louisville, 14; Covington, 3; Lexington, 1; Newport, 1; Middlesboro, 1; Paducah, 1; Henderson, 1.

The breweries employ 1,800 men and pay over a million dollars annually in wages. There are eighteen brewers' agencies in the state, which help to swell the total.

Kentucky breweries purchase every year grain worth $1,115,576.11, and spend $100,000 a year for cooperage. Much of this amount is spent for Kentucky grain and Kentucky cooperage.

VALUE OF SALOON PROPERTY.

Saloon property in the state is a large item, according to the reports received by the National Model License league from the principal cities. Of the 1,727 saloons in Kentucky, 678 are in Louisville; 563 in cities of the second class; 132 in cities of the third class; 206 in cities of the fourth class, and 148 in cities of the fifth and sixth classes.

The average city license, outside Louisville, is over $200, and the Louisville rate is $500. In addition, each saloon pays $201.50 state and county license.

Saloon property is estimated at $3,454,000. All of this property would be vacated if prohibition laws were passed in Kentucky, according to the league's statement.

COOPERAGE INTERESTS.

One of the chief industries of the so-called "dry" counties of the state is the getting out of tight-barrel and beer-keg staves. While not well known, it is a fact (report of Gifford Pinchot, chief bureau of forestry, department of agriculture) that Kentucky alone produces more than half of the staves for whisky casks and beer kegs used in the United States and exported to foreign countries.

There are 131,000,000 gallons of whisky in bond in Kentucky, and the barrels contain 47½ gallons each. This makes 2,275,000 barrels to hold the present stock in bond. On an average, bonded whisky remains in the warehouse four years, and as a whisky cask may be used but once, it takes 568,750 barrels a year to handle the whisky crop. Whisky casks cost $3.85 each. This makes the cost of Kentucky whisky barrels annually $2,189,780.50, practically all of which money remains in Kentucky.

Beer kegs cost $3.25 each, and the average life of a beer keg is a year. An authority on the subject says cooperage expense of breweries in Kentucky annually is $100,000, which means that 30,000 kegs of the total produced annually are used here. The direct loss to Kentucky cooperage interests by state-wide prohibition would be $2,289,687.50 yearly.

BOTTLES AND CASES.

The item of bottle and case expense to distilleries and breweries in Kentucky is quite large. A case of twelve quart bottles represents a value of $1.60. A case of two dozen pints costs $2.10, and a case of four dozen half-pints costs $2.60.

There were 3,574,298 gallons of whiskies bottled in bond last year in Kentucky. There were then 1,191,433 cases of bottled-in-bond whiskies and twice as much free bottling whiskies in 1908, aggregating 3,574,298 cases of three gallons each, both bottled-in-bond and free-bottling whiskies.

The average cost per case is $1.95, making the amount expended for bottling and cases $6,969,881.10. The cases, practically in entirety, are made in Kentucky, and while there are but two or three glass factories in this state, there are several large agencies.

The making of whisky cases is a big industry in itself, and most of the lumber used is produced in this state. The expense of bottles and cases to breweries in Kentucky is $100,000 annually. The combined case and bottling expense of distilleries and breweries is $7,069,881.10 yearly.

LOSS TO EMPLOYMENT.

In the figures prepared by the National Model License league, attention has been devoted to the labor statistics in connection with the distilling, brewing, retailing and collateral trades of the state. The distilleries of Kentucky employ 8,190 persons. The retail business gives employment to 7,200 men; the brewing interests supply jobs for 1,800 men, and the brewing agencies employ 250 men. The cooperage interests, box manufacturers, glass factories and agencies employ about 2,500 men. Thus 20,000 persons are given employment, the pay-rolls being about a million dollars a month.

ALL INDUSTRIES AFFECTED.

The league says that there is not an article of commerce that would not be affected injuriously in case the Kentucky legislature should pass summary laws preventing the legal manufacture and sale of alcoholic beverages. The league challenges the advocates of prohibition to name a trade or industry in Kentucky which would not lose if the state-wilders should be victorious.

President T. M. Gilmore adds the following note to the league's statement:

"To enumerate the losses in properties, in resources, in employments, which prohibition would entail upon this state is to paint a picture before which the stoutest heart might quail, and yet this Anti-Saloon league, composed of a lot of second-rate pulpitiars and political quacks, is calmly proposing the advocacy of such legislation.

"It is not claimed that prohibition has ever prohibited; it can not be shown that the numerous states that during sixty years have tried it have been in any wise benefited; it is notorious that insanity, drunkenness, crime, and pauperism have not decreased in Maine or Iowa or Kansas; it is not proposed to give us an example of 'peace on earth' in any of the states now under prohibition, but simply because some men find profit in such crusades and some women delight in hysteria, this army of quacks with a discredited issue declares that it will destroy the greatest interest in Kentucky, and incidentally inaugurate a panic that would sweep this country from ocean to ocean."

The Value of Books.

A young girl once asked Mark Twain if he liked books for Christmas gifts.

"Well, that depends," drawled the great humorist. "If a book has a leather cover it is really valuable as a razor strop. If it is a brief, course work, such as the French write, it is useful to put under the short leg of a wobbly table. An old-fashioned book with a clasp can't be beat as a missile to hurl at a dog, and a large book, like a geography, is as good as a piece of tin to nail over a broken pane of glass."

RUMBLINGS OF THE RAIL

A Roast of Missouri Pacific.

The Booneville Branch of the Missouri Pacific is given a roast of one and one-quarter columns in the Bunceton Eagle of February 26. Here is a sample paragraph:

"The trouble here as well as on the main line seems to be due to the lack of motive power. The kind of engines that the company has been running on the branch are said to be worn out and entirely unfit for service. In fact, it is almost a farce to try to operate trains with such engines as are being used. The faithful crew on the branch road makes every effort possible to get over the line with the patched-up old engines, but such a thing as running on time is an impossibility."

CHANGES ON THE M. K. & T.

MADE NECESSARY BY THE REMOVAL OF THE TELEGRAPH DEPARTMENT.

IT GOES TO DENISON, TEXAS, MARCH 8

Present Quarters at the Station to Be Occupied By the Civil Engineer and Assistants—Other Changes.

The offices of the superintendent and assistant superintendent of telegraph of the entire M. K. & T. system, which have been located in Sedalia for twenty-five years past, will on Monday, March 8, be moved to Denison, Texas.

This information was officially announced Saturday by G. W. Neely, chief clerk of the general telegraph department. The transfer will necessitate the removal from Sedalia to Denison of S. K. Bullard, superintendent, and family; W. H. Hall, assistant superintendent, and family; G. W. Neely, chief clerk; Miss Audrey Grey, chief stenographer, voucher and bill clerk; T. L. Kerr, supply clerk, and family; J. O. Dougan, stenographer and clerk; J. J. Tryling, electrician and telephone expert, and family.

The monthly pay roll of the employees affected by the move is approximately $1,000. During the twenty-five years' stay of the telegraph offices in Sedalia all telegraph operators used on the system from St. Louis and Hannibal to Galveston and San Antonio Texas, have been hired here and sent out from this city, and all supplies and material have been kept on hand at the Sedalia office.

In addition, this department has absolute charge of all electric lights used in all offices on the system, stations and buildings, telephones, clocks, interlocking plants and block signals, and all accounting of all Western Union messages sent over the M. K. & T. wires has been done in this department.

All office furniture and fixtures will be taken to Denison on train No. 1 Monday evening, March 8, and all electrical supplies will follow by freight.

The offices at present occupied by the telegraph department will, after the change, be occupied by R. M. Garrett, resident engineer, and force, while A. Frakes, roadmaster, and clerk, will hereafter occupy the resident engineer's present office.

A new office, for the use of the claim department, will be established at the Katy station as soon as the change is made.

HARE FOR ENGLISH JURYMEN.

Hunted in Morning, Served at Evening, According to Old Custom.

The quaint custom of hunting the hare in the morning, to be served up for the jury's dinner at the annual court baron, has just been revived at Chard, says the London Standard.

The custom has been discarded for the last 40 years, but in the old time it excited a great deal of interest. A local pack of hounds used to hunt the manor lands in the morning, and the first hare killed was sent back to the chief hotel for the dinner of the jury at the court baron.

It is said that another feature of the dinner was an enormous bowl of punch, the contents of which would cost as much as eight pounds sterling. The young Earl Poulett, who is the lord of the manor of Chard, brought over the Seavington pack of hounds this week and the mayor presented his lordship with a gold-mounted hunting crop as a souvenir of the occasion. Later in the day the court baron dinner was held and the hunted hare was served up with all the honors.

Judge Beresford held the monthly sitting of the county court in the morning and in honor of the old custom decided to postpone judgment summonses till the next court in order that there might be no commitment of debtors to prison on that auspicious occasion.

New York, Feb. 27.—Wilbert Healy, a 17-year-old boy of Bloomfield, N. J., sneezed violently yesterday and regained consciousness after being in a ten-days' trance. He was injured in a basket ball game ten days ago, and after returning home lost consciousness and was kept alive only by the use of liquid foods forced between his clenched teeth. It is the belief of physicians that his sneezing loosened a blood clot on his brain and that he will recover. He was conscious today and apparently improving rapidly. Dust from a sofa cushion evidently caused him to sneeze, although he was unconscious at the time.

Paris, Feb. 27.—For the moment church thieves are leaving objects of art alone and are turning their attention to articles of weight. A queer theft is reported from the village of Garrigues, a small commune in the Gard. Thieves have actually stolen the church bell.

As the steeple is seventy feet high and the bell weighs two and a half hundredweight, it is difficult to imagine how the thieves got away with their booty unobserved. As yet there is no trace of the bell or the thieves.

A curious discovery was made in connection with the arrest of a band of Apaches at Vaise, near Lyons. The band had committed a number of burglaries in the commune of St. Foy. Five were arrested, and another member of the gang was caught as he was about to break into a shop which he had watched for eight days.

On this thief was found a copy of the Apaches' articles of association and the rules to be observed by the members. The document sets forth that any member of the band who failed to keep an appointment would be fined a penny. Every member had to assist a friend who found himself in a tight corner. Any member who acted "on his own" would be expelled from the society.

If at any time the leader of the band showed a lack of capacity he would be deposed and another member elected. A thief could only be elected a member of the society after his qualifications had been strictly inquired into. The proceeds of all burglaries had to be equally divided among those who had taken part in them. The document was covered with curious inscriptions, such as "Death to the Police," "Honor to Men of Heart." With one exception all the members of the gang are under lock and key.

KING EDWARD AND KAISER WILHELM

Cable to the Democrat-Sentinel.

Hearst News Service.

London, Feb. 27.—This picture has just been received from the other side. It is a snapshot showing King Edward, of England and Kaiser Wilhelm, of Germany, during the king's recent visit to Berlin.

Baudin, who yesterday killed his ailing wife at her own request. Mme. Baudin was a victim of asthma, never leaving her house. She had a bad attack yesterday. Her husband helped her to undress and offered to cook her some food; but she refused the food, and implored him to kill her, and so put her out of her misery.

"At this moment," says Baudin, "a cold sweat came over me. I went into another room and took a revolver from my jacket pocket. I hesitated a moment, and then came to a sudden decision. Rejoining my wife I fired at her at arm's length. She did not utter a cry. At sight of the blood rushing from her head, I realized that I was a murderer. I placed my revolver on the table and called my sister, who advised me to surrender to the police.

"That is my crime," added Baudin. "Do with me what you like." The man's statement has been partially verified. He is kept in the lockup and will be sent to the depot.

The residents of the Rue Monge are perplexed by a strange hanging mystery. Recently an employee of commerce, named Cointreau, lost some papers to which he attached great importance. His loss preyed upon his mind. As all his efforts to find them were in vain he informed his concierge that he was going to hang himself and ascended the stairs to put his threat into execution.

The concierge heard him knock a nail in the wall, and ran to the police commissary and informed him of the resolution her tenant had taken. The magistrate forced Cointreau's door. On a table in the first room he entered he found a slip of paper on which these words were written: "I have hanged myself in the cupboard of my bedroom."

The magistrate looked in the cupboard and found a nail from which a broken cord dangled. But the man's body was not found. The police commissary believes that M. Cointreau changed his mind, and has instituted a search, which, up till now, is without result.

With the object of studying dress designing in all its aspects, Miss Jane Fales has arrived in Paris from Columbia university, New York. Miss Fales says she is convinced that dress has a higher mission than it has yet been accorded. The moral influence of dress has been considerably overlooked.

"Having gathered a store of knowledge in Paris, London and possibly Vienna," she says, "I shall return home and start a branch of dress-making and dress designing at the Columbia university. We shall send our pupils to every state in America, thus popularizing good taste and the possibilities of artistic effects through the country."

The campaign led by Senator Pliot in favor of large families is being encouraged by the railway companies, some of whom have for a number of years distributed sums to those of their employees who are rearing families. The Orleans company has just decided to increase the sum allotted to the family men in its employ.

Those men whose wages amount to $300 a year and who have more than two children less than 15 years of age will henceforth receive a bonus of $13. If there are four children $38, and if five $60 a year. The bonus will be less in the case of employees receiving a salary between $300 and $425 a year.

Something like 6,000 employees will receive these bonuses. The generosity of the Orleans company does not stop here. In 140 districts where living is dear grants will be allowed as rent.

Czar Ferdinand

Cable to the Democrat-Sentinel.

[Hearst News Service.]

London, Feb. 27.—Czar Ferdinand, of Bulgaria, who has added another factor to the near eastern crisis by making a formal demand on the powers that the independence of Bulgaria shall at once be recognized.

Whilst waiting for the discovery of the roads to Mars and Saturn, France will soon possess the first aerial road, which is to be between Paris and Orleans. The idea comes from the mayor of Orleans, and the plans have been drawn up jointly by the municipal council of Orleans and the Orleans Aero club.

The "road" will be indicated by high masts, or, if necessary, by derricks which will be placed two miles apart, with long and vividly painted pointers at the top. The road is not to be, as some might suppose, immediately above the fine highway which passes through Etampes and is as straight as any Roman road.

Just as Macadam, General Ade and their followers looked first of all at the gradients and natural obstacles, the engineers of the aerial road are looking for level plains and suitable fields where aeroplane drivers may alight or reascend with the greatest possible comfort.

The distance, accordingly, will be somewhat greater, and it seems probable that the length of the new road will be little short of a hundred miles. The various local aero clubs will provide members with a list of suitable stopping places when the road is made, and the time comes to use it.

ON THE EVE OF A CRISIS

DEATH DUTIES MAY RESULT IN REJECTION OF GOVERNMENT SCHEME.

WOULD PROVIDE $115,000,000 REVENUE

Germans Are to Establish a New Station for Aerial Warships—A Railway Inspector's Escape From Wolves.

By Malcolm Clarke.

Cable to the Democrat-Sentinel.
(Copyright by W. R. Hearst.)

Berlin, Feb. 27.—Germany is evidently on the eve of a serious internal crisis. It becomes daily more evident that the deliberations of the finance committee of the Reichstag of the proposed financial reforms which will provide additional imperial revenue to the amount of $115,000,000 will result in the rejection of the entire government scheme.

The fiercest fight is taking place on the death duties, which Conservatives and Centre alike oppose, but the widest dissatisfaction is also felt about the brandy monopoly bill and bills for the taxing of gas and electricity.

Should the committee reject the death duties it will mean the ruin of the entire financial program which is identified with the name of Prince Buelow. What will then happen no one knows, but there has been great excitement in the lobbies of the Reichstag. It is not at all likely that the chancellor will advise the dissolution of the Reichstag on any such question. He is certainly better advised than to go to the country with a program which lays an additional burden of 460,000,000 marks on the taxpayers.

It is probable that the extremists will accept the death duties in some modified form—for example, excision of widows and widowers from its incidence. The "Junkers" have begun to quote Scripture in defense of their opposition. They have discovered a passage in Ezekiel where the prophet warns the princes not to interfere with the inheritances of their people.

The German military authorities have decided to establish a new station for aerial warships in the vicinity of Cologne, and it is expected that the necessary sheds will be erected during the course of the present year. The sheds will provide accommodation for two airships, which will be permanently stationed there.

The new military station for airships at Metz, now in course of construction, will be completed in May or June. Two airships, one of the Zeppelin type and the other of the Gross type, will be stationed there. Another military station for airships just erected at Friedrichsafen was taken over this week by the war office. Counting the military airship station at Tegel, near Berlin, the German government will thus possess in the near future four havens for aerial warships, three of which will be comparatively near the French frontiers.

Prof. Ernest Heinrich Haeckel, who ranks with Darwin, Huxley and Kelvin as one of the scientific giants of the modern period, delivered his farewell lecture at the University of Jena a few days ago and attained his seventy-fifth year on the 16th of this month.

Darwin's "Origin of Species" made its appearance about the time when Prof. Haeckel began his scientific career. He fell under its influence and became forthwith the leading exponent of the Darwinian theory in Germany. It was the spirit of Darwin which permeated, more or less, all his subsequent work. At the age of 32 he published his work on "General Morphology," which is acknowledged to be an epochal event in the history of biological research. He republished it later in a popular style Haeckel carried on the theories of Darwin to more definite conclusions. He traced the evolution of man through twenty-six stages, and was the first who attempted to draw a genealogical tree showing the origins and relationships of the animal kingdom. But perhaps his most ambitious work was the "Riddle of the Universe," published in 1900, in which he attempted to apply the doctrine of evolution to the problem of the higher nature of man. Prof. Haeckel has been twice married and has one son and two daughters.

The recent appearance of a natural son of King Milan—George Christie, aged 20—in Buda Pesth, has given rise to much discussion. Christie is unfavorably situated as regards his material condition, and the friends of his father, who formerly interested themselves in supporting his pretensions to the Serbian throne and lent him actual assistance, are almost all dead.

As a means of livelihood, Christie accepted an engagement as a cabaret singer and appeared yesterday for the first time in the Buda Pesth Royal Orpheum.

Much interest was shown in the debut of the king's son, and the house was crowded. Various Serbian deputies were noticed in the audience, with many other Serbs. Before Christie's appearance on the stage a member of the management made an introduction speech, in which he sketched the fate of the young man. Then Christie, elegant, handsome and slender, presented himself to the public, who received him with great applause and loud "Zivios." He sang first in English, then in French, after which he gave a Hungarian song, rather making fun in the latter of his position. The refrain of the song was: "A crown in the pocket is more worth than a crown on the head." The refrain of the second song ran: "When I was still son of a king in Serbia." After the songs he performed some artistic tricks, and received throughout enthusiastic applause.

Josef Szabo, a railway inspector, yesterday had a narrow escape from being eaten by a pack of wolves near Csap, Hungary.

He was running down the line on a trolley when he heard the howl of the wolves, and though he worked the trolley as fast as he could, they were soon in close pursuit. He kept them at bay for a time by firing his revolver, but his cartridges were becoming exhausted, and, finally, having momentarily detained the pack by killing one of the brutes, he leaped from his trolley and climbed up a signal post.

He remained there for three hours, by which time it had grown dark, and on hearing the approach of a train, he set fire to his handkerchief. This attracted the attention of the driver, who stopped the train, and the official was rescued from his perilous position half frozen to death.

Special to the Democrat-Sentinel.

Tampa, Fla., Feb. 27.—Tonight the Florida state fair closed with a mask carnival and revel on the range which for merriment rivaled the elaborate carnival week in Rome.

Promptly at 11 o'clock the merry revelers unmasked, the bands over the grounds struck up in unison "God Be With You Till We Meet Again," and the Florida state fair for 1909 was only history.

KISSED HAND OF QUEEN

YE GODS, JUST THINK OF THE HONOR ACCORDED YOUNG AMERICAN BRIDE.

SPOUSE IS KING'S MASTER OF THE HOUSE

The Countess of Granard, Formerly Miss Beatrice Mills, Of New York, Is Presented At the First Court Of Season.

Special to the Democrat-Sentinel.

London, Feb. 27.—The Countess of Granard, formerly Miss Beatrice Mills, of New York, was presented at the first court of the season today and kissed the hand of the queen.

As the bride of the King's master of the house, she was given precedence at the function and was cordially greeted by Her Majesty.

The Granard town residence has been taken from the Earl of Dartmouth, furnished and will be occupied by the Granards for a year, while the Countess is looking about for a town house, which is to be a wedding gift from her grandfather, Darius Mills.

As Mrs. Whitelaw Reid will not return to London before March 1, she was unable to present her compatriots at today's court, and as Mrs. Ridgely Carter is still in mourning, the doyenne of the Ambassadors, Countess Benckendorff, of the Russian Embassy, made the American presentation.

Mrs. Arthur Orr, wife of the third secretary at the Embassy was among those to make their debut in the American circle.

SPEED SALE MARCH 4 AND 5

W. B. Taylor Ready For Great Event at the Fair Grounds.

What is regarded as the most important sale of speed stock ever held in the United States is that to be conducted by W. B. Taylor, the well-known horseman, at the Missouri State Fair grounds, March 4 and 5.

Interest is manifested all over the country in this event and noted turfmen from many states are expected here to make an effort to "land" one or more of the animals. Such horses as Bellbar, May June and Early Alice will be sold at this sale, which, because of their wide acquaintance and known qualifications are widely sought.

Bellbar's record, 2:16 3/4, and May June at 2:18 3/4, make them in demand by trainers, but the "shining light" of the arena will be when Early Alice is led in and put under the hammer. This little animal is the greatest trotting mare on the turf today. She has a record of 2:06 3/4, which places her right along with the top notchers.

Others to go on the block are Rhodena, Ah Marie, Aileen, Dee, Tolo Boy, the latter four being bred by Walnut Boy, Virginia, 2:08, a beautiful black mare, is another of the lot.

Mr. Taylor is fast executing details for the event and will be ready to care for all visitors and show every accommodation by the time the sale opens.

Special attention has been given to provide for the public generally and ladies are especially invited to be present.

This sale, which will be one of the really rare events in point of quality of stock offered, and one of the biggest sales ever held, is made possible by the desire of the owners of the horses to dissolve relations, and the method to accomplish this is the sale announced for March 4 and 5.

On the evening of March 4 there will be a meeting of the breeders of the state and a big time is anticipated.

Few Know That All Stomach Trouble Is Food Fermentation and Easily Overcome With a Little Diapiesin Which Can Be Had Anywhere.

Some people think they have Indigestion, others Catarrh of the Stomach, others Nervousness, Cancer or Dyspepsia, etc. Call it this if you will, but the real name for your trouble is Food Fermentation, with only partial digestion. Everything you eat turns to either Acid, Stomach gas or Stomach poison, which weaken the digestive organs, causing a lack of gastric juice. Your food clogs, is only half digested, and you become afflicted with loss of appetite, pressure and fullness after eating, burning sensation, a feeling of vomiting, heartburn, water brash and tenderness in the pit of the stomach, slimy tongue, bad taste in the mouth, constipation, nausea, belching of gas, dizziness, sick headaches, mental depression and many other common symptoms.

You can cure all this by not eating, by not putting any food in your stomach to ferment, but how about the nourishment needed to sustain your bodily strength? If you are a stomach sufferer, either man or woman, young or old, whether you call it Indigestion or any other name, go now to your druggist and give 50 cents for a case of Pape's Diapiesin.

Every possible kind of Stomach trouble is readily cured by Diapiesin, which takes right hold of the food in your stomach and digests it alone, without the help of the stomach, just as if your stomach wasn't there.

After a few days' use of Diapiesin your Stomach will again be in good working order, your meals will thoroughly digest and your intestines will be clean and fresh, and you will have no use for laxatives or liver regulators.

Champion Hayes of Marathon fame, praised at a dinner in New York a walker.

"He is a walker?" someone said.
"Yes," said Mr. Hayes, "and the next race he enters, mark me, he will win."
"Why, I didn't know he had had any experience as a walker," said the other in a puzzled voice.

Mr. Hayes laughed.
"No experience as a walker, eh?" said he. "And the fellow's owned an $80 second-hand motor car for the last two years!"

S.S.S. THE ONLY REMEDY FOR BLOOD POISON

S. S. S. is the one and only reliable and certain cure for Contagious Blood Poison. This claim is not based on the treatment of a few cases of the disease, here and there, but its success extends over a period of more than forty years, during which time thousands upon thousands have found a cure by the use of this great vegetable remedy. S. S. S. is first of all, an absolute perfect blood purifier, able to go down into the blood and remove every particle of the virus of Contagious Blood Poison. It cleanses and purifies the circulation, and in this way removes the cause of the trouble. Then nature, assisted by a rich, healthy blood supply, quickly renovates and renews the system, while the symptoms of ulcerated mouth and throat, skin eruptions, discolored spots, falling hair, sores and ulcers, etc., disappear, leaving the body entirely free from the effects of this insidious poison. When S. S. S. has thoroughly cleansed and purified the circulation there is no danger of any future outbreak—the blood is pure and the cause of the disease entirely removed. MAKING OF A PRESIDENT

THE INAUGURAL CEREMONIES
FROM GEORGE WASHINGTON
TO W. H. TAFT.

HISTORY WILL REPEAT ITSELF MARCH 4

Induction of Chief Executive Into Office Is Distinctively American—Is Sublime in Its Simplicity.

Associated Press.

Washington, Feb. 27.—History will again repeat itself next Thursday, when William Howard Taft bows his head over the Holy Bible and takes the solemn obligation which shall make him, for a stated period, the chief magistrate of the United States. The ceremony of the induction of a president into office is distinctively American. Conceived in the minds and hearts of the nation's fathers, while they yet were in the throes of a great revolution, it is grand in motive—sublime in its simplicity.

Through the lapse of years, since the establishment of the American government, substantially no change has been made in the ceremonial form, although elaborate and beautiful accompaniments, in recent years, have become notable features of this most important of American functions.

No Emperor, King or Dictator.

In the time of Taft, as in the time of Washington, the spectacle bears the same simple impressiveness. Here is no emperor, or king, or dictator, arrogating to himself, "through the law of succession or monarchical expediency" the powers of government; but the creature of a willing, enthusiastic and homogenous people taking upon himself, through the expression of his peers, the responsibility of carrying out their mandates and directing the execution of their will. Yesterday he was one of a hundred million people; today, yet one of the people, but chosen for a brief time to direct their destinies and to protect and defend their nation.

It was Washington, who, to a large extent, devised the plan of a president's inaugural. In this respect, as in others, his work has stood the test of time. It will endure, too, for so long as the nation may live, in its original form of beautiful and impressive simplicity.

Inauguration of Washington.

Washington was inducted into office at New York. At the time of notification of his election, he was residing at his beautiful country home, Mount Vernon. He proceeded to the then seat of government on horseback, in coaches and in eight-oared barges. His journey was a triumphal march. No such scenes of enthusiasm ever had been witnessed in this country as attended his progress. The country people gave him hearty greeting by the road side; in Philadelphia the citizens had decorated the streets and buildings elaborately and he rode on a splendid milk-white charger beneath triumphal arches; and in towns and hamlets farther east his pathway was strewn with flowers by women and children.

upon the administration of the oath of office were worked out after his arrival in New York. It took place in the old Federal building, which then was the seat of congress, and the oath was administered by Chancellor Livingston. The first president was waited upon by committees of the house and senate at his temporary abiding place and an escort of regular United States troops accompanied him to the "capitol."

Alone in a Carriage.
He was driven in a handsome coach and as he had no predecessor he was alone in the carriage. When the announcement was made formally that Washington had taken the obligation which made him the first president of the United States, the multitude waiting outside of the building gave itself up to an enthusiastic demonstration. Speeches were delivered and patriotic songs were sung, and that night there was a display of fireworks.

The second inauguration of Washington took place in Philadelphia. While the ceremony was more elaborate, in its accompaniments, than the first had been, it remained, as always, in its essential form, simple and impressive. Washington was conveyed to the capitol in a handsome coach drawn by six white horses. His attire was notably elegant, being of black velvet, with diamond-studded buckles, silk hose and cocked hat.

John Adams Inaugurated.

Four years later, John Adams was inaugurated as president, also in Philadelphia. Apprehension had been expressed that the young government would be unable to withstand the strain of a change of presidents; but the result was a superb vindication of the wisdom of the fathers. Washington passed the reins of government to his successor with the same patriotic grace and willingness and wisdom that had characterized his every public action.

The real test of the government's institutions came four years later when Thomas Jefferson became president. He was not elected by the people, but by the house of representatives. The election had resulted in a tie and the house of representatives exercised its constitutional prerogative of choosing the president. The contest in the house was very bitter, but again the nation withstood the strain magnificently.

Then Came Mr. Jefferson.

"The Sage of Monticello," as Jefferson was affectionately termed, was the first president to be inaugurated in Washington, the seat of government again having been changed. Accompanied by only a few friends, he rode on horseback from his home to Washington. He was joined by a small detachment of cavalry, which escorted him into the city. He went, unaccompanied in his carriage, to the capitol, not because he had no predecessor, but because President Adams, embittered by the result of the action of the house, left the city early in the day, declining to await the new president. The inaugural ceremony took place in the old senate chamber, the oath of office being administered by Chief Justice Marshall. At its conclusion the new president proceeded to the White House.

"A Vast Concourse."

According to contemporaneous accounts, "a vast concourse" of about a thousand people stood in the gardens, fields and strips of woodland along Pennsylvania avenue and gave Jefferson enthusiastic greeting. As Washington was nearly inaccessible in those days, celebrations of the inauguration were held in many cities and towns throughout the country.

It is reported that a throng of ten thousand people assembled on the east front of the capitol to witness the inauguration of President Madison. An immense crowd that was to Washington in those days. Regular troops and militia formed the nucleus of a parade, which was the first real inaugural procession. The ceremony was concluded with a reception at the White House, at which former President Jefferson was a prominent figure.

Monroe Inducted Into Office

President Monroe was the first to take the oath of office on a stand in the east front of the capitol, midway between the senate and house of representatives. He had announced that he proposed to have the obligation administered in the hall of the house, but the senate objected. The result of the wrangle that ensued was that the ceremony took place in the open air, as it takes place now. It was regarded as an omen of good that American eagles flew majestically over the capitol at the time of Monroe's inauguration.

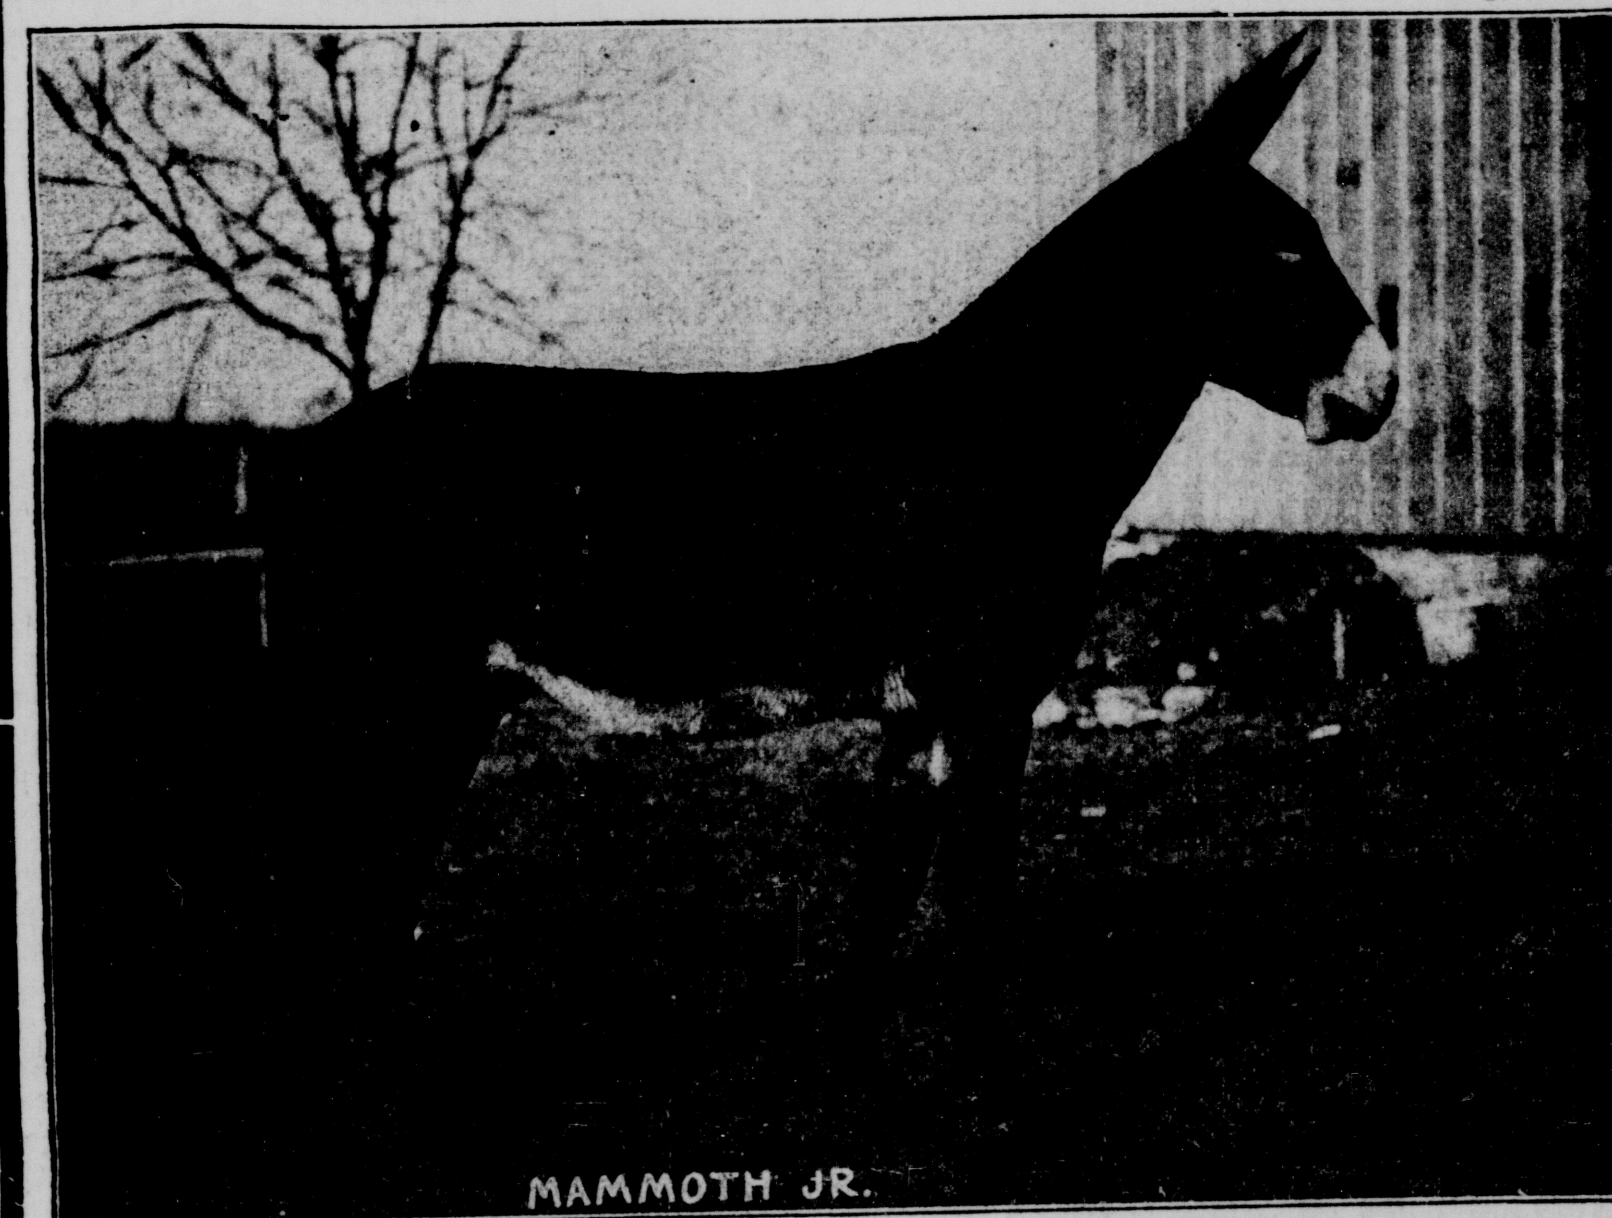

John Quincy Adams Came Next.

The struggle over the election of John Quincy Adams by the house of representatives was so long that the inauguration had to be postponed until the latter part of March; but it was the most elaborate ceremony that yet had been held in Washington.

Inauguration of Jackson.

The inauguration of Andrew Jackson in 1829 was a notable ceremony. It probably would have been even more spectacular than it was had the president not suffered the loss of his wife shortly before. As it was, however, Washington gave evidence of his appreciation and patriotism and hospitality with a demonstration which called from Daniel Webster this comment:

"Never has such a crowd been seen here before. There must have been fully 8,000 people along the line of march. Persons came 500 miles to see the president inaugurated." The president that day occupied a carriage constructed from a part of the hull of the frigate Constitution.

Twenty thousand spectators were banded along the line of march at the inauguration of President Van Buren. The ceremony attendant upon the inauguration, however, had no specially distinctive features.

William Henry Harrison
At the inauguration of President William Henry Harrison for the first time citizen soldiery from the various states participated in the ceremonies.

In the inaugural parade elaborate campaign devices were used, the log cabin being a prominent feature. The protective doctrine, on which Harrison had conducted his campaign, was illustrated by working looms and other machinery, illustrative of the progress of American industries. General Harrison rode on horseback to the capitol and returned to the White House in a coach presented to him by the Whigs of Baltimore. It was estimated that seventy-five thousand people witnessed the ceremony.

Tyler Takes the Oath.

Scarcely a month later Vice President Tyler was called upon to take the oath of office as president, President Harrison having passed to his reward. The ceremony of inducting President Tyler was conducted in his own home in Washington without pomp or display of any kind in view of the grief-stricken city and country.

Bad Weather for Polk.

The inauguration of President Polk was, to an extent, a personal disappointment to him, as the weather was execrable. Polk was fond of display, although his tastes were not specially military. The inaugural procession, therefore, was somewhat heterogeneous. It included not only the military, but members of his cabinet, the clergy of the District of Columbia, the professors and students of Georgetown college and what was known as the Fairfax cavalry, a kid glove Virginia regiment, representative of the best families in the Old Dominion.

Taylor Died in Office.

President Zachary Taylor was not inaugurated on the fourth of March, that date falling on a Sunday. The old fighter was fond of pomp and ceremony and the inaugural procession was one of the finest, up to that time, that had been seen in the country.

Fillmore Followed Taylor.

Fillmore, through the death of President Taylor, came into the office of the presidency, without special ceremony, although the oath of office was administered to him in the usual way before the congress.

Pierce and Buchanan.

Pierce and Buchanan were inaugurated in no distinctive fashion, although the ceremonies in both instances were attended with great demonstration.

When Lincoln Became President.

When Lincoln came into the presidency the country throughout was trembling with apprehension. For the first time in the history of the United States regular troops had been ordered to Washington, not for display, but for protection. Although Lincoln himself expressed no fear, extraordinary precautions were taken to preserve his personal safety. When he delivered his inaugural address on the east front of the capitol in the presence of an immense throng, his rival, Stephen A. Douglass, stood at his side and held his hat. Following the formal inaugural ceremony, Lincoln tendered to the populace an elaborate reception at the White House. His second inauguration followed the greatest internecine conflict known to history. Elaborate precautions were taken to insure the president's safety, yet many were the missives as to the outcome.

No Ceremony for Johnson.

The induction of Andrew Johnson into the office of president, following immediately upon the assassination of Lincoln, was conducted in the private room of a hotel. No ceremony attended it.

Spectacular for Grant.

The greatest spectacular display made up to that time was at the inauguration of President Grant. It was practically purely a military demonstration, and although magnificent in all of its features, was marred to an extent by the refusal of his predecessor to ride with Grant to the capitol in the same carriage. It was a bleak, cold and dismal day on which Grant was inaugurated the second time. The demonstration attending the ceremonies, however, were notably fine, notwithstanding the intense cold. Many visiting organizations declined on account of the repellent weather to participate in the parade, and many persons who did take part in it, including some naval cadets, paid for their patriotism with their lives.

Haves' Oath Is Private.

On account of the manner of the election of Rutherford B. Hayes, it was deemed necessary, as in the case of Lincoln, to exercise the utmost precautions to insure his personal safety. The oath of office was administered to him in private on the 2d of March, but the ceremony was repeated on a stand at the east front of the capitol on March 5th.

Hancock Greeted Garfield.

When Garfield entered the senate chamber on March 4th, just prior to taking the oath of office, one of the first men to greet him was General Hancock, the unsuccessful democratic candidate for the presidency. The ceremony of inducting Garfield into office, with its accompaniments, did not differ materially from previous functions of the kind.

Arthur Took Oath Twice.

In succeeding the martyred Garfield to the presidency Chester A. Arthur twice took the oath of office. On receipt of the news of Garfield's death, he took the obligation at his home in New York city. Two days later the oath again was administered to him in Washington, in the vice president's room on the senate side of the capitol. His inaugural address was brief and was delivered in the presence of comparatively few persons. No spectacular ceremonies attended his induction into office.

Perfect Day for Cleveland.

A perfect day characterized the first inauguration of Grover Cleveland. The crowd in attendance upon the ceremony was one of the greatest ever seen in Washington, and the parade was elaborate and magnificent.

Bad Weather for Harrison.

The inauguration of President Harrison, while elaborate and beautiful in all of its arrangements, was attended by bad weather. A notable feature of the ceremony was his escort of honor, the Seventieth Indiana volunteer infantry, which he had commanded in the civil war. President Harrison delivered his inaugural address in a driving rain, being sheltered by an umbrella held by one of his war comrades.

Cleveland's Second Term.

Not probably in the history of inaugural ceremonies has the weather ever been so bad as it was at the time of Cleveland's second induction into office. Pennsylvania avenue was inches deep in slush and practically throughout the day rain and sleet fell, to the serious discomfiture of all who participated in the ceremony.

Twice for McKinley.

On the contrary, the day on which McKinley was inducted into office the first time was one of the most beautiful that ever dawned. In a carriage drawn by four black horses, accompanied by Mr. Cleveland, under the escort of Troop A Cleveland, Ohio's famous black horse cavalry. The demonstration attendant upon the ceremony was magnificent, nearly forty thousand men being in the line of parade.

At his second inauguration, rain fell incessantly, and many were the prophecies of ill as a consequence. These prophecies came too true, for in the

Your Neighbors Can Tell You

No doubt, if you yourself don't know, of many marvelous cures of Stomach, Liver, Blood and Skin affections that have been made by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, for it has a most successful record of over 40 years.

These CURES embrace also many bad cases of Weak Lungs, lingering Coughs, Bronchial, Throat and Lung affections, some of which, no doubt, would have run into Consumption, had they been neglected or badly treated. We don't mean to say that the "Golden Medical Discovery" will cure Consumption when fully seated, but it will strengthen weak lungs, improve digestion, and make pure, rich, red blood thereby overcoming and casting out disease-producing bacteria and giving robust, vigorous health.

BEEN MARRIED 28 YEARS

EMPEROR AND EMPRESS OF GER-MANY CELEBRATE THE ANNIVERSARY.

MANY MESSAGES WITH CONGRATULATIONS

A Family Gathering Was Held at the Palace—Stories of the First Meeting of Wilhelm and His Queen to Be.

Special to the Democrat-Sentinel.
Berlin, Feb. 27.—All Germany today celebrated the twenty-eighth anniversary of the wedding of the emperor and empress. A family gathering was held at the palace, and the royal pair received messages of congratulation from all the monarchs of Europe.

It was on Feb. 27, 1881, that Fred-erich Wilhelm, then crown prince of the empire of United Germany, was married to the Princess Augusta Victoria of Schleswig-Holstein-Sonder-burg-Augustenburg, then a girl barely 22 years of age. There was great rejoicing throughout Germany on that day, and the anniversary has always been remembered by the German people, and never more enthusiastically than today.

Many are the stories told of the first meeting of Frederick Wilhelm and his queen-to-be. One relates how he watched the princess playing tennis, himself unobserved behind a hedge, and how at once he decided that this lithe, long-limbed, comely girl was fit to become the mother of an empire's heirs. But there is another and a newer version of the meeting coming out of Germany itself, and far to good to rewrite or abbreviate.
Here it is:

"In the depths of the park, where the sun shone gently through a cool, green veil, gliding here and there with pinkish gold the points of the spears of grass through the interstices of the foliage, a hammock was swinging between two rose-garlanded trees, and in that hammock fast asleep lay a girl whose rounded cheeks were flushed with warm, healthy shell pink.

"She was young, barely more than 20, with softly chiseled features, hair sombre gold in the shadows, but where the sun rays touched it the hue of liquid topaz—light and sparkling, indeed, as if delicately powdered with jewel dust—and a pretty mouth, half parted in a smile, as if her dreams were singularly pleasant ones.

"She wore a garden frock of light muslin, the soft, billowy folds showing to immense advantage her slender, reclining form, while some stray petals, wafted from the roses above her, gave here and there touches in satin red about pale yellow.

"Suddenly, the branches of a Siberian pine were gently parted, and a young man, erect and graceful, stepped into the bower, while the voice, youthful and, well modulated, exclaimed: 'Dornroschen!' (Little Thorn Rose.)"

The prince had found his princess.

And so they were married and lived happily ever afterward—or at least reasonably so.

THE INTELLIGENT USE OF

Newbro's Herpicide

RARELY FAILS TO PRODUCE THE MOST GRATIFYING RESULTS.

Miss Della Knight

The prominent American actress, whose photograph is shown above, writes as follows:

"I have found nothing to equal Newbro's Herpicide. It keeps the hair from falling and frees the scalp of dandruff. An occasional application leaves the hair delightfully fluffy." (Signed) Della Knight.

READ THIS LETTER.

"Enclosed please find coupons for soap and comb with order for 88 cents, for which please send the above articles.

"I have used Newbro's Herpicide for two years and think an article so meritorious should be well advertised and widely used, for it is a boon to all womankind. I am giving you my experience and if you think it likely to be of interest, you are welcome to use it as you think best, for I have derived such great benefit from Herpicide that I would like others to know of it.

"When I began its use two years ago my hair was only two inches long and very thin, the result of four years' residence in India, the intense heat of the climate having ruined my hair. I tried everything in Europe and in America without benefit, until I tried Herpicide. I am delighted with its effect and my friends never tire of admiring my hair;

it is long, soft, and as silky as a baby's hair, not a gray hair to be seen, and my hair was quite gray before I used your incomparable remedy. I do not think the praises of Herpicide can be sung too loudly or too long. Several of my friends are using Herpicide on the strength of my recommendation."

Richmond, Va. (Signed) MRS. S. A. LEE.

NOTE—Herpicide will not darken gray hair, and we do not want anyone to spend money for Herpicide in the belief that it will. Herpicide will stop falling hair, but if the hair that falls is gray, the new growth will also be gray. In this particular the above case is remarkable.

Send 10 cents in stamps to THE HERPICIDE COMPANY, Dept. L, Detroit, Mich. for sample and booklet.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

Is the best of all medicines for the cure of diseases, disorders and weaknesses peculiar to women. It is the only preparation of its kind devised by a regularly graduated physician—an experienced and skilled specialist in the diseases of women.

It is a safe medicine in any condition of the system.
THE ONE REMEDY which contains no alcohol and no injurious habit-forming drugs and which creates no craving for such stimulants.

THE ONE REMEDY so good that its makers are not afraid to print its every ingredient on each outside bottle-wrapper and attest to the truthfulness of the same under oath.

It is sold by medicine dealers everywhere, and any dealer who hasn't it can get it. Don't take a substitute of unknown composition for this medicine of KNOWN COMPOSITION. No counterfeit is as good as the genuine and the druggist who says something else is "just as good as Dr. Pierce's" is either mistaken or is trying to deceive you for his own selfish benefit. Such a man is not to be trusted. He is trifling with your most priceless possession—your health—may be your life itself. See that you get what you ask for.

Mrs. Morris Condition Improved. Mrs. M. H. Morris, who has been sick for the past month, is improved but is still bedfast.

Worcester, Mass., writes Mrs. A. R. Knowlton, in Our Dumb Animals. Prince was a thoroughbred, his naturally fine instincts sharpened and rendered more acute by his training, for he had known life on the race track, until some slight accident unfitted him for that career and transformed him into a carriage horse.

He was being driven homeward one evening in winter when dusk was fast rendering even nearby objects invisible. Suddenly he stopped short, trembling all over.

In vain his driver urged him to proceed. Prince refused to stir, and the quivering of his muscles increased.

At last the driver left his seat to discover the cause of this unusual behavior. It was soon explained. Just in front of the horse—in fact almost beneath his upraised foot—lay a woman.

KEEPING UP WITH THE TIMES.

A Matter on Which All Success in Life is Dependent.

A physician tells me that he goes through his medical library every year and throws out a lot of books which have become useless to him because the new, up-to-date, the more progressive, are pushing out the old.

We all know that some of the scientific books published are useless a year after they appear in print. There never was a time in the history of the world when the new in every line of endeavor crowded out the old as it does to-day.

If you examine your business thoroughly you will probably find old-fogy methods, obsolete ideas, and cumbersome ways of doing things; a lot of red tape in your methods.

Remember that nothing else is improving faster than business methods. If you are keeping books as they were kept a quarter of a century ago, if you are using the same business system, you will find that you are way behind the times.—Success Magazine.

Wanted the Painkiller.

Whenever two-year-old Ruland bumped his inquisitive head or bruised his adventurous body a bottle of some good old-fashioned lotion was brought out and some of its soothing contents applied to the injured part. Recently Ruland received his first spanking, an experience which was to him totally new, strange and mystifying. About all he understood of it was that it hurt and immediately after being allowed to wriggle off of the maternal knee he toddled toward the shelf on which stood his old friend, the bottle, and with hands upraised cried imploringly:

"Botty, botty, give Wuland botty twick!"—Kansas City Times.

FEWER SMITHS IN CONGRESS

The Representation Is to Be Cut from Six to Four.

Special to the Democrat-Sentinel.

Washington, Feb. 27.—There will be weeping and wailing and gnashing of teeth in the whole Smith family next week, as the representation of the clan in congress will on Thursday be reduced from six to four.

Representative Madison R. Smith, of Missouri, and Marcus A. Smith, delegate from Arizona, will not be in the Sixty-first congress, and no strange Smiths will come to uphold the family name and fame.

Ralph H. M. Camenson will succeed Marcus Smith from Arizona, while Polite Evans, of Elvins, Mo., will occupy the seat of Madison Smith, of Missouri.

The retirement of the Missouri and Arizona Smiths will leave on duty Samuel W. Smith, of Michigan; Sylvester C. Smith, of California, and Walter I. Smith, of Iowa, all republicans, and William R. Smith, the lone democratic Smith.

Revealing Ancient History.

In Laconia, Greece, where excavations are being carried on vigorously by English archeologists, the latest finds confirm many assertions by ancient authors concerning the Spartans. It becomes definitely known that Lacedaemonia was formed by the union of five villages; that only priestesses and citizens fallen in battle were buried; that children were birched in public, etc. But the most fortunate discovery is that of the most ancient Doric temple known. It dates from 500 B. C. It is built partly of wood and partly of sun-baked bricks.

THE DR. CAMP MEDICAL COM'Y'S GREAT WORK.

OUR MODERN AMERICANIZED EUROPEAN METHOD OF TREATMENT IS WORKING WONDERS IN A LARGE NUMBER OF CASES HERETOFORE CLASSED AS INCURABLE. TO SHOW WHAT OUR NEW TREATMENT CAN ACCOMPLISH WE HEREWITH PRESENT A FEW MOST EXTRAORDINARY CASES FOR THE CONSIDERATION OF ALL SUFFERERS.

TUMOR CURED WITHOUT THE KNIFE

Mr. and Mrs. Lee, 916 West Fifth Street.

By Our New Discovery, the Modern Americanized European Method of Painless, Bloodless Surgery Treatment for the Cure of Female Diseases. By these wonderful methods, if you come to us in time, you can be cured absolutely and permanently without pain, operation, or the use of the knife.

Dr. Camp Medical Co. Gentlemen:

I know it is a delicate subject for a lady to express her troubles to the public, especially for one who has suffered as I have, but I feel so deeply indebted to you and so grateful for the wonderful cure you have performed that I feel it my duty not only to you, but to all suffering sisters that I should do all I can to make known what you have done for me. Some two years ago I began to have severe flooding spells, and nothing I could do gave me any permanent relief. I consulted the best physicians here and finally sent for a specialist from Kansas City, who examined me and told me I had a severe case of Fibroid Tumor of the Uterus. I was treated at home for a number of months and afterwards went to Kansas City, and was treated there for some time by this specialist, but gradually grew worse and was told that I would have to submit to an operation and advised me to go to a hospital. I came home and had lost hope, as I was so weak that I could do nothing, but as a last resort I consulted you, and when you told me you could cure me without an operation or the use of a knife, I was so impressed with your assurances that I immediately began treatment and I am certainly overjoyed and more than thankful, for you have done all you said you could and my tumor has entirely disappeared. I feel like a new person. It will always be a pleasure to me to answer all correspondence from all suffering sisters.

MRS. ZORA M. LEE, 916 West Fifth Street.

Mrs. Lee, residing at 916 West Fifth St., is a very estimable and highly respected lady, who has a host of friends that are much surprised and greatly delighted at the remarkable and most extraordinary cure she has received while taking a course of our famous painless, bloodless surgery treatment for female disease. Mrs. Lee is widely known, having resided in this city for over 30 years and we take pride in our great achievement of restoring her to health.

Our cure should challenge the admiration of the medical world for the like was never accomplished before, but by our new discovery, we were able to absorb a tumor as large as a turkey egg attached to the womb, without pain, operation or the use of the knife. Mrs. Lee is a good and noble woman, and fearlessly comes forward and proclaims her affliction, telling what has been done for her, all for the benefit of her suffering sisters.

Women's Department—Weak Women

It is the health of the wife, the mother and daughter that mars or makes the happiness of home life. THE CAUSE is readily traceable to some derangement of the female organs, chief of which are a depression of spirits, melancholy, a reluctance to perform, cheerfully the daily duties, backache, dragging sensation, unnatural discharges, irregularities, pain in the back, sides, breast, neck or head, nervousness, bloating and sleepless nights, discoloration around the eyes, liver spots, blotches, muddy complexion. One or all of these symptoms are but timely warnings and if unheeded a life of suffering with serious complications is the inevitable result. To all such sufferers we extend a helping hand. Our modern method of examination and manner of procedure is without exposure; our consultation free, our special home treatment for ladies works the most happy results.

THE CRITICAL PERIOD OF A WOMAN'S LIFE—The most dangerous and critical period of a woman's existence is during change of life, and if you have been a chronic sufferer beware, cancer of the breast or womb ovarian tumors, polyp ulcerations, etc., all stand ready to wreck your hopes of a ripe old age, and to those of you who have already encountered these terrible wreckers of happy homes, we bid you hope, for it is on these malignant and deep-seated diseases that we have concentrated all our energies for years and have so perfected our methods that we cure absolutely and permanently without operations or the use of the knife, advanced case of cancer, ovarian fibroid and uterine tumors, together with all other complications arising therefrom by our modern Americanized European method of Painless, Bloodless Surgery Treatment for Female Diseases. THE ROMANCE OF MARS

IF LIFE EXISTS THERE, IT'S NOW IN A DEATH STRUGGLE WITH NATURE.

NO LONGER RANKS WITH FAIRY STORIES

Only Within the Past Few Years Has the Power of the Drama Been Realized—Home Defence Cry of the Moment.

By Lady Henry Somerset. Cable to the Democrat-Sentinel. (Copyright by W. R. Hearst.)

London, Feb. 27.—That which but a short time ago seemed to take its rank with the Fairy stories in the Fables is fast becoming an established fact and the existence of the people of Mars is discussed as seriously as any other scientific phenomenon which is in process of proof.

A storm of incredulity was raised when Schiaparelli first discovered the marks on Mars which he attributed to the work and agency of human beings. The usual sneering remarks were called forth, but the unerring eye of the camera has proved beyond doubt that those marks exist.

The romance of Mars, however, consists in the fact that if life exists there it is a life which is fighting a death struggle with nature. Mars is a planet on which water is becoming scarcer and scarcer.

All planets, we are told, as they advance in age are doomed to lose their water, and when the planet has become arid and dry and life ceases to exist, it rolls a deadweight through space.

Mars is much smaller than the earth, and consequently the process of drying has gone on quicker. Moreover, it is probably much older in its evolution.

Professor Lowell suggests in his extremely interesting article, that "the Martian canals are the hopeless struggle of a people to convey water from their poles that only a race of great intellect, developing with the menace of nature to its existence, could have surmounted the growing difficulties, but the struggle of environment," he says, "must be drawing to near the limit in Mars, and the last resources of ingenuity have been invoked in the struggle with the inexorable conditions of the universe."

A nearer interest perhaps attaches in the fact that the history we see carried out in Mars will eventually be the history of our own world.

Only within the last few years has the power of the drama been fully realized. I have long felt that serious minded and religious people had never half understood the potent influence of the dramatic sense which exists in almost all human beings, and that this forceful implement had too long been in the hands of those who wield it for the purpose of empty amusement or an appeal to the senses.

The extraordinary interest which has been aroused by a play recently given in London is a proof positive of the truth of this assertion.

"The Englishman's Home" is an attempt made to show the defencelessness of our position, and the ease with which a foreign invader could enter our island and capture our country.

This distant contingency has never really been taken into account, but this play has vividly presented not only the possibilities but the relation that such an invasion would have to every suburban home or peaceful country dwelling. The result has been electric.

Home defence is the great cry of the moment, and although I hate war with a deadly hatred, I feel that we must all concede the fact that the defence of the home induces not only patriotic desire to protect the country, but also that it enlists the interest and sympathy of all classes, brings them nearer one another, and above all things recruits from the wastrel population, brings them under discipline, keeps them in camp for at least three months in the year under rigorous training, and sends them out understanding what discipline means for the first time in their lives.

Mr. Haldane's plan for the territorial army is to my mind one of the finest things that has been conceived for a long time. It has nothing of the spirit of conscription about it, but it has in it a very strong element of self-denying patriotism. Discipline is more wanted among the youth of our day than ever before.

It is impossible to live in the slums of our great cities without knowing that there are vast armies of hooligans who could be turned to useful account, whose lives would probably be changed if they could be brought under control for even a few weeks at a time.

They have never known a parent's control, for from the age when they could toddle they have taken themselves out into the streets to live a life of their own, sleeping only in the wretched tenements which are called homes. Out of school hours they have done as they liked, and when they have grown older they have become a formidable menace to society. Now, these boys taken for a few weeks in the year and placed under conditions in which life becomes a new and responsible thing may be saved to be valuable citizens, instead of adding to the criminal classes.

It is for this reason that I so strongly approve the plan which Mr. Haldane has conceived, and which far from increasing the military spirit, will, I believe, do much to make the men of peace recognize the hardships, the dangers and the wickedness of war. Home defence is the positive duty of every citizen, and therefore cannot come under the criticism of those who justly abhor aggressive warfare.

A little sensation was created under the arch of Whitehall where the tall figures of Life Guards stand like statues day and night, by the appearance of a young lady in military uniform, in a blue skirt with riding boots, a scarlet tunic with yellow facings and epaulettes and service cap.

Passers-by rubbed their eyes and wondered whether this was another phase of the Suffragette movement or whether the Territorial Army had opened their gates so wide to women that she was to be enlisted as recruiting sergeant.

It turned out, however, that Sergeant-Major Kitty Baker is an officer in the Voluntary Association of Patriotic Young Women, who have formed a nursing yeomanry corps for first aid service in the field of action.

Applicants are required to pass the corps doctor and obtain a certificate of physical efficiency, to provide their own uniform and the cost of riding lessons if they do not already know how to ride. It must have required no little courage to face the eyes of thousands of spectators, as they gazed with admiration on her smart uniform and befitting appearance.

It is significant that in every great national movement which now takes place some new development of the woman question simultaneously arises.
